Fullerton, CA – February 10, 2016 – Frank Chavoya has been named a finalist in the American Society for Nutrition’s (ASN) Emerging Leaders in Nutrition Science Competition, an event that recognizes the highest scoring research presented by students and young investigators at ASN’s Scientific Sessions and Annual Meeting at Experimental Biology 2016.

More than 1,000 abstracts were submitted by students and postdoctoral fellows and the Emerging Leaders in Nutrition Science Competition aims to recognize the top 20% highest scoring abstracts as finalists. Abstracts were rated by more than 200 nutrition scientists. Mr. Chavoya’s abstract is titled Energy Expenditure in Children with Prader-Willi Syndrome During Walking.

All finalists will compete in a poster competition to be held Saturday, April 2 from 5:00 – 7:00 pm in the Sails Pavilion of the San Diego Convention Center. Grand prize winners in more than 16 research areas will be identified and receive travel awards.

The Emerging Leaders in Nutrition Science Competition is being organized by ASN’s Research Interest Sections, Global Nutrition Council and Medical Nutrition Council and sponsored by PepsiCo.

For a full list of finalists in the Emerging Leaders in Nutrition Science Competition, visit scientificsessions.nutrition.org/special_events/emerging-leaders.

The American Society for Nutrition is the authoritative voice on nutrition and publisher of The American Journal of Clinical Nutrition, The Journal of Nutrition, and Advances in Nutrition. Established in 1928, ASN’s more than 5,000 members in more than 75 countries work in academia, practice, government and industry. ASN advances excellence in nutrition research and practice through its publications, education, public affairs and membership programs. Visit us at www.nutrition.org.

###